

Combining DETAIL & Craftsmanship

An open floor plan is the threshold to fine design and detail

As difficult as it is to imagine improving on the best, that's what Chad and Christina Bell did when they purchased their home in Beagle Construction's Greensway Estates. They purchased their home as a spec, then went through and made it their own by adding personal touches and customizing it to their lifestyle.

Chad and Christina's style is traditional with contemporary accents. Exterior eye appeal includes clean lines with an abundance of intricate stone work. Beagle Construction adds exceptional detailing and a look of distinction by building their own decorative gable vents.

The exterior landscaping is a notable compliment to Chad, who owns a commercial/residential landscaping company. Design and plant selections ensure blossoming color in every season. Surrounding greenery enhances the pops of color. The front walk is done in pavers, a detail Chad specializes heavily in.

The craftsmanship and line structure set this home apart. Along with the other notable exterior details, the lighting was designed to accentuate Chad's handiwork.

The Bell's love to entertain so all the design elements, floor plan and revisions were centered around their culinary passion. "We wanted something open and comfortable for people to enjoy themselves," shares Christina.

Beagle built their previous home, so they carried through to the new house the facets and styling that worked before and improved upon those that did not.

The kitchen features painted white maple cabinetry with a chocolate glaze by Pioneer Cabinets, a Michigan company. The cabinets and wine rack are trimmed with an espresso maple trim. Granite surrounds the kitchen. It also has an oversized built-in cooler and bar, ideal for entertaining. "We always keep the cooler stocked with drinks," states Christina "It's definitely unusual, a look most people haven't seen."

The Beagle distinction is craftsmanship and detail. There is a different trim in every room, recessed lighting, and built-ins, all contributing to the customization of the home.

The two-story home has hickory hardwood flooring, and a custom wood burning fireplace. Most doorways are accented with transoms. "Our house is not out of the ordinary, but it is extraordinary because of the craftsmanship," agree the Bells.

The master bedroom is unique because of its tray ceiling and lighting feature accented with crown molding. "I absolutely love our closet. It's every woman's dream," gleefully shares Christina, adding "There's even a little room for Chad."

The master bath also features an unusual ceiling treatment, dual sinks, Jacuzzi tub and custom tile design.

The home is very energy efficient. Beagle is at the forefront of energy efficiency and green construction trends. They pride themselves in using the best industry practices, state-of-the-art insulation and eco-friendly supplies.

Beagle designs all their homes in-house, along with all the interior design. They are committed to providing an enjoyable experience, working closely with each client from start to finish on every aspect of the job, from financing to drawing and design.

Repeat clients, Chad and Christina say it best, "Working with Beagle Construction gave us a sense of ease because we knew that Beagle would make the building process one of enjoyment, rather than one of stress and frustration." □
